Good Deeds for 9/11 Day
11 Ideas for Government Leaders and Public Agencies

1. Host a Community-Wide Service Event
   Lead a volunteer effort such as a park beautification, street cleanup, or public space revitalization in partnership with local residents.

2. Issue a 9/11 Day Proclamation
   Formally recognize the day through a proclamation encouraging community-wide participation in acts of service and remembrance.

3. Support a Local Donation Drive
   Coordinate or promote a city-wide collection of food, clothing, school supplies, or hygiene items for local shelters or pantries.

4. Organize a Civic Engagement or Voter Registration Table
   Promote civic involvement by setting up a voter registration booth at town hall, schools, or community centers.

5. Share Stories of Local Heroes
   Highlight first responders, veterans, or community members making a difference—on social media, in newsletters, or at public events.

6. Visit or Recognize a Fire Station or Police Precinct
   Deliver thank-you notes or snacks to first responders, and share your visit publicly to model appreciation and respect.

7. Promote Good Deeds Online
   Use your office's platforms to encourage residents to pledge a good deed using the hashtag #911Day and highlight examples.

8. Offer Public Space for a Volunteer Event
   Allow a local nonprofit or civic group to use a government building, park, or plaza for a service project or tribute activity.

9. Host a Moment of Silence or Unity Gathering
   Organize a public moment of remembrance, unity walk, or candlelight vigil open to all residents.

10. Collaborate with Schools or Youth Groups
    Partner with local educators to encourage student service projects or good deed pledges through in-school activities.

11. Lead by Example
    Publicly pledge and share your own good deed—and encourage fellow officials and government employees to do the same.
